What documents should I receive when seeking financial product advice?

Depending on the nature of the advice sought, you should receive:

1. Financial Services Guide (FSG). The FSG will describe the type of services provided.
2. Statement of Advice (SOA). A Statement of Advice must be provided where the adviser is giving personal financial advice. Personal advice is provided after taking into account your particular objectives, financial situation and needs. A SOA is a record the personal advice provided to you and includes information on the basis on which the advice is given, fees and commission and any interests or associations that might influence the advice.
3. Product Disclosure Statement (PDS). An issuer of a financial product must provide a PDS providing information about the financial product, which will assist you in making an informed decision about the product. You should always read the PDS before investing to make sure the product is suitable for your needs.

General advice warning

This brochure and the links within the FMS website may contain general advice about a product on our list contained on the web site when you registered. It is up to you to decide if the product or service being discussed is appropriate to your specific needs. We will recommend that you switch existing super funds into a product based your priorities and objectives by completing our questionnaire on the web site. We may ask for additional information to assist in our recommendation. If you do not provide the requested information then you risk investing in a product that is not appropriate. Under the new laws we have an obligation to provide advice in your best interest, not ours. We need to collect accurate information to make a full recommendation so we ask you to cooperate to guarantee accuracy.

This fee may vary but we will endeavour to disclose that. We are not entitled to receive investment commission on new superannuation products from July 2013. We are entitled to receive group insurance commission of between 1% and 27.5% of the premium on superannuation products.
